VDARE can sadly confirm Colin Flaherty has passed away after a battle with cancer. He was a brave truth teller during a time where we are governed by lies and liars.
Here's a review of his highly influential book - "White Girl Bleed A Lot" at VDARE -- > vdare.com/articles/white...

Flaherty, who won awards as a mainstream reporter before going rogue with his books "White Girl Bleed A Lot: The Return of Racial Violence to America and How the Media Ignore It" and "Don't Make the Black Kids Angry: The Hoax of Black Victimization and Those Who Enable It," became one of the most canceled people on the planet.

His popular YouTube channels documenting cases of black-on-white crime were shut down repeatedly, years before the great post-Trump 2016 election purge.

He was banned from PayPal and Facebook and had his latest book "Don't Make the Black Kids Angry" banned from Amazon.

So he became a Thought Criminal and needed to be canceled. First by YouTube, then PayPal, then Facebook, and finally Amazon—the tech monopolies moved swiftly to punish Flaherty for his Wrongthink.

Nonetheless, Flaherty took it all in stride and adopted alternative platforms like Minds, BitChute and SubscribeStar.

"30 years ago, Colin's investigative skills exonerated a black man accused of attempting to murder a white ex-girlfriend. But when journalism became a publicity mill for the Left, Colin clung to the facts. So he became a Thought Criminal."

Despite his ill health, Flaherty boldly held a "Victims' Lives Matter" protest and shut down the I-95 amid widespread Black Lives Matter rioting in the summer of 2020.

He and fellow protesters held up a giant sign saying, "Victims Matter: Remembering The Victims of Black Crime And Violence," and smaller signs showing the portraits of Tessa Majors, Justine Damond, David Dorn, Serge Fournier, Pat Underwood, Sebastian Dvorak, Reese Bowman, Erma Kaylor and more.

In nearly all his videos, Flaherty hammered that "the greatest hoax of our generation" is "the myth of black victimization" and "the hoax of white racism" and criticized the "denial, deceit and delusion" used to cover it up.

You can watch tons of his videos along with his recent interviews on BitChute. You can read an archive of his columns at the American Thinker.

it's not even that he didn't name them
It's that he actively tried to suppress the information he frequently banned and chastised people who tried to point out the truth
I have come to the conclusion that we need gateway people to bring normies over gradually, the Alex Jones's , the Corbet reports, the computing forevers,
but I frown on people who censor
I think it is more helpful to have some people who do not actively and explicitly name them as long as they are not censoring, as long as they keep their comment sections open and are not heavily moderating we can use that as a resource to reach people

We do need gateway people and he served a valid purpose.
It's obvious that the Jmedia covers up black violence and most people can eventually figure this out.

He did a lot to challenge the narrative of blacks as the permanent victim class and expose them as the largest group of violent criminals. Most of what he said is pretty obvious to those on the right, so there was a desire by many for him to expound upon the origins of black pathology along with the Jewish role in weaponizing black rage and turning it against Whites, which he avoided.

Yours is a good summary -- in his humble and fearless way, he did a lot, and I won't hold any alleged shortcomings against him; I feel the same about Jared Taylor -- despite censorship, 'cancel culture', and the reluctance of people like Colin Flaherty and Jared Taylor to 'go there', there are plenty of people, albeit perhaps less well-known, calling out the role of Jews, so this is also gaining traction.

I'm sure this will make the black kids happy – if only for a couple of seconds. Then they will soon find something to be angry about.

Sounds like a great man.
So sorry I am learning about him only at this most unfortunate time.
Instant mega-fan.
